Notice To Subscribers.—When a red cross-mark appears on the margin of your paper it is placed there to notify you that your subscription has expired. If you desire the paper to be discontinued notify us of the fact immediately; otherwise it will be continued at your expense.

Persons who have the paper brought to them by the carrier, and who are not subscribers, are hereby notified that hereafter no subscription will be received for a less time than six months, payable in advance.

M. C. R. R.—Trains pass Bolivar as follows: Passenger train, south, 1:35 p. m.; passenger train, north, 5:50 p. m.; Freight train, north, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 5:00 p. m.; Freight train, south, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5:25 a. m. By this arrangement persons visiting Memphis will no longer be compelled to stay over all night at the Junction, but go through to their destination without any stoppage, save for few moments required to change cars. Connections will be equally perfect from Memphis to this point.

DEPRECIATION.—We are compelled to omit a report of the tournament held yesterday. In our next issue a full account will be given.

HEAVY ROBBERY.—It is very seldom that we can get hold of a local item of any kind, so quiet and orderly are the citizens of the good old county of Hardeman, but for once, the "ice has been broken," and we have a story to relate. Some time ago, Mr. William Bowling, Jr., who resides in the southern portion of the county, had one thousand five hundred dollars in gold stolen from him. It appears that the money was kept in an out house, in which was stored away a large quantity of cotton seed. The door of this house was kept securely locked and the keys were kept in what was supposed to be a safe place. It was the usual custom of the old gentleman to occasionally look after his hidden treasure. Suddenly the gold disappeared, and no traces of the thief could be found, until one day this week a negro man, who was engaged as a laborer on the premises of Mr. Bowling, exhibited upon the premises a bag of gold, which was the money that had been stolen. He was arrested, closely questioned, and not only implicated himself, but also a negro woman, whom he had recently married. She too was arrested, and on last Tuesday the twin were brought to town, not however, before they had made a full and complete confession to their guilt. About eleven hundred dollars of the money was recovered, the other portion of the amount stolen, they had spent in various ways, not forgetting to buy in a good supply of clothing, useless notions, etc. The guilty parties are in safe quarters, and will no doubt, be sent on a pleasure trip to the stone edifice at Nashville.

An Irish Eccentric.—In these days of tournament excitement it is not easy to relate what happened to an honest son of the Emerald Isle several years ago near Matagorda, Texas. A brace of "the boys" arrived at the above mentioned city and requested employment, not finding anything to do, they turned their faces towards the interior towns. After traveling over the brown and crimped prairie for several days, and becoming somewhat tired of their lonely tramp, they concluded to take a ride on horseback—suddenly they came upon a drove of "mustangs," homed two of them in a corner of a fence, and mounted upon their backs without saddle or bridle. In an instant Teddy O'Keefe was thrown violently to the ground while Patrick Mahaffey, his companion, was borne away from him at a rapid rate, and having nothing with which to guide his steed, was compelled to succumb to the whims of his wild mustang. After running at a break-neck speed for some distance up the road, the pony, rabbit like, turned and came at full tilt towards the place from which he had first started, with his strange "bucking." Arriving at the point where Teddy was, the pony stopped and commenced rearing and pitching in a fearful manner, while Pat was holding on like grim death to the dead Yank; observing that his friend was in rather a perilous position, Teddy cried out to him: "Patrick! why the devil don't you jump off by my side? he'll break every bone in your dirty body!" to which Pat immediately answered: "I would jaw, jaw, jaw, blackguard, yer! Hooly Moses! and it's all I can do to stay where I am, and how's a man to take time to get off now?" and was instantly tumbled upon the ground.

REPEKA.—We are pleased to announce to our readers that another addition has been made to the growing mercantile profession of our little city, and that too by a gentleman long and favorably known to many of the citizens of this county and the surrounding country. Messrs. Jerome Hill and Leon Hills have secured the popular house known as "Billie's old stand," and are now opening one of the best stocks of goods to be found in the Western District. All of their purchases were made for cash and that too before the late rise in prices. It is surely an evidence of increasing trade to see such staunch individuals launching out upon the sea of enterprise. They will deal in dry goods, groceries, wines, etc.

REPEKA.—In our last week's issue an error occurred in the synopsis of the proceedings of the County Court. The paragraph read thus: "Claims against the county amounting to $3,115.08 etc., presented and appropriated." It should have read: claims against the county amounting to $3,115.08 etc. presented and appropriated. It is our purpose to report the proceedings of the court correctly, so that each one of our readers can see and know what has transpired in the quorum court in case of non attendance.

COTTON.—We are informed that all cotton grown in the Western District can be sent to Memphis, where it will be marketed and weighed. Read the article in the fourth page of today's paper, it furnishes all necessary information.

WETTER.—During the past two or three weeks a great many emigrants have passed through our town on their way to Texas and Eastern Arizona. Where the winter white haired children find a fruitful home. Most of the emigrants are from Middle and East Tennessee, and many of whom, as we learn, have left their old homes on account of radical persecutions and the tyranny of the Tennessee Legislature.

Rich Reading.—Hon. Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts; Gov. James L. Orr, of South Carolina; John H. Hayes, John Pierpont, Wm. H. Harvey, and a whole host of other illustrious names, with other illustrations, given in the October number of the Phenological Journal. Also Social Science, Dreams and Dreaming; Psychology; Physiology; Physiognomy and Phenology. It is a very interesting number—only 20 cts. or $2 a year. Address Fowler & Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

Circuit Court.—This court will convene at the court house in Bolivar on the 4th Monday in this month. Many important cases are to be tried and parties interested should govern themselves accordingly.

New Cotton.—Two bales of cotton, the first of the season, was brought to our town on last Thursday. It was grown a few miles from Bolivar, on the place of James Chesler, and purchased by L. C. Elson & Co. at 25 cents. It was an excellent staple and can be counted as a fair specimen of what Old Hardeman is doing despite all the drawbacks of the past summer.

Personal.—Mr. Harrington, of the enterprising house of Harrington & Co., arrived in our town during the first part of the present week. He had been absent in the eastern cities selecting a large stock of fall and winter goods. We are pleased to see him enjoying his usual excellent health.

For clothing, hats, caps, bonnets, boots, shoes, silks, satins, domestics, flannels, linens, notions, etc., call on L. C. Elson & Co., south side of the public square, one door east of Billie's old stand.

Residual.—W. T. Banks, photographer, has removed to the new building recently erected for the Art Gallery of Bolivar, where he will be pleased to see any of his numerous friends—"or any other man—especially the ladies."

Beautiful.—The weather, for several days past, has been beautiful. Planters are busily engaged picking out cotton, and should the present favorable season continue, the amount to be gathered will be large and of the best quality.

Ogilby Bros. & Co., corner of Front and Monroe sts., Memphis, have just received large additions to their immense stock of hardware, cutlery, guns, etc., see their card in another column.

The Fine Arts.—Prof. Y. D. W., corner of Union and Main streets, Memphis, has fitted up one of the finest Art Galleries in the South. He is an expert in his profession, and furnishes his customers with pictures inferior to none. For photographs, etc., call on Day.

Heavy.—Blood & Co., 361 Main st., and 40 and 401 Monroe street, Memphis, are heavy dealers in stoves, lamps, oils, paints, zinc, lead, and useful household articles of all kinds.

Simpson, Hadden & Co.—We call the attention of our readers to the card of this firm. N. Emmett Hughes is with them and would be pleased to see his numerous friends from Hardeman.

Choate & Co.—Our readers should bear in mind that this firm deals in hardware, tinware, cutlery, paints, stoves, etc., and for inducements inferior to none. You will find them at 232 Front street, Memphis.

Lory.—A Bachelor Shop will never do without push along, keep moving! And knowing this to be true, our friend Lory, at the Washburn House, Memphis, has established all of competition. He has the best material establishment in Memphis.

Swinebroad & Late.—This firm have just received their new fall and winter goods. The public are assured that they offer inducements second to none. Call and examine their stock and ascertain prices.

Guns.—Fleming & Ussery, have on hand and for sale, low, a fine assortment of superior English and American guns. If you want a bargain, call on them.

Lawless & Wright.—This firm is recorded among the best of Memphis. They are manufacturers and machinists. Shop and foundry of Washington street. Prices low and uniform.

Look out for a grand display of the "shoot ing stars" on the 10th and 14th of next month. A celebrated Professor has predicted that a perfect shower of meteors will be seen during through the upper deep on the evening of the days mentioned.

Another Priest Arrested in Missouri. A correspondent of the St. Louis Republic writes to this paper from Washington, Mo., on the 3d instant, as follows:

This night Rev. Father "Vittman" (a guinea in a felon's cell, charged with the terrible crime of shooting a thief) was condemned and crucified. Two indicted had been found against him by the professional jurymen of this country, for preaching the Word of God, and the cry of "crucify him, crucify him" was so great that he was confined to the straitjacket by order of a Court in this one of the United States of America. Oh! where is the boasted religious liberty? where the boasted home of the oppressed—the land of the free? Where can the May Flower of 1866 land, that her pilgrims may again kneel upon the rock and give thanks to their God that they are again delivered from the hands of their persecutors?

In recording this outrage, that must shock every lover of republican government, it must be stated in justice to the Judge, notwithstanding his extreme Radicalism, he discharged this duty with much reluctance, but the new Constitution and the Fletcher Court made it imperative upon him.

Outrages of the most disgraceful character are being perpetrated almost daily; but as Radicals and professional jurymen are the participants, no notice is taken of them. Hence it is that the wickedest of that preaching to a sinful people, is regarded by these conservators of the peace as the only crime that should be punished.

Jefferson Davis.—When the smoke and dust of this Southern civil war clear away, and the record of the great assize of History be set up, and the sentence pronounced on this most desperate struggle for separate nationalities, there will stand forth no figure so sublime as that of this gallant soldier, brilliant orator, sagacious statesman, and Christian gentleman, bereft of every earthly possession, shut out from all converse with the human family, guarded by mutes, pillaged by a tyrant, accused by an assassin, reviled with paralytic, blind, mangled, tortured with an ingenious cruelty which denied him sleep, with a brutal mob of millions clamoring for his blood, yet calm, defiant and undaunted, asking no favor, the best and no enemy against the worst, save a public trial in the courts of his foes.

Life has been allotted to him well rich to the verge of his three score years. Honors have poured on him for more than half his life, filling full the measure of American fame. Yet were his life to end the ages of the past, and his name to double the glories of the illustrious son of David, the bright particular year of his history would be that in which a chained captive, the last victim of a lost cause, raised his voice in perpetual clamor for no favor of twenty millions of enemies, but for the right of a feeble tongue, it may be that makes the appeal, but the cry pierces the triple iron of his dungeon, pierces the massive walls of his Bastille, drowns the multitudinous roar of the neighboring seas, rises above a victorious nation's shouts, and a fallen nation's wail, and will go "sounding down the ages" to assure the world that the virtue men call Roman, and the courage they call Spartan, died neither on the Tiber nor the Eurates.

Adversity by the Persia says the news from Candia is of much moment. In a recent engagement between the Revolutionary Christians and Infidels, the allied Turks and Egyptians were defeated with great loss, having 3,000, placed hors de combat. The victors, the Persians, were taken prisoner and released after signing terms of capitulation. The agitation was spreading, and this, with the Eastern question, commands the serious attention of the Great Powers.

"Do you like novels?" asked Miss Fitzgerald of her old backwoods lover. "I can't say," he replied; "I never ate any; but I'm death on possum."

A Stander Noted.—The Republican Banner says: "The following is a list of the children of the late John Bell of Tennessee, the wife of a notorious New York counterfeiter." The above which is likely to go the rounds, will deceive many persons at a distance. It is made by the peculiar structure of the lines to seem to refer to the Hon. John Bell, who is still living, and has but one married daughter, Mrs. W. D. Canby, whose husband once resided in Cincinnati, and now lives at his country place near Philadelphia. We trust the Commercial will correct the statement.
